cessity of preserving the naval base at Port Arthur and the loss of prestige that the fall of Port Arthur would entail were the arguments that prevailed in the council. General Kuropatkie has therefore been advised to attempt to relieve the fortress, but to act with the greatest prudence. A general whom I interviewed on the subject of the council said 'If Kuropatkin is weak enough. ril said 'If Kuropatkin is weak enough to advance he will commit a serious blunder. The number of his troops is nsufficient, and the conditions unde which he would act are unfavorable. He might meet an almost irreparable reverse and Port Arthur be further from relief than ever. If we try to relieve Port Arthur we will be doing exactly what the Japanese hope."
